Amy Joy

A remembrance by Greg Smith

Dear Loved Ones (our family and friends),

Amy was my Rock, a woman of faith, and a gift from God to me, our children and to each of you.

Amy was the glue of our family and the family of her youth, as you all well know. She would be or would become whatever she needed to be for any one of us at any given moment.

Amy was resilient in the face of adversity, whether it was something she was helping each of us deal with - coming alongside to help us through it - or the adversities she faced personally.

Amy's strength, no matter what each day brought, was due to her Rock, Christ, and her faith in Him (knowing He always had her back).

Amy fought for each of us. If you called and she was needed, Amy didn't ask questions - she just headed into the fray.

And in remembering Amy's love for each of us I want to share a few passages from Amy's heart from her Bible. Two that helped Amy cope with every day, and one promise she held onto until she left this earth for her home in heaven.

I pray these passages will give you comfort and strength.

Love,

Greg
